Foreign Aid Bill Slashed $790 Million

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee today cut $790 million from President Eisenhower's original foreign aid requests, including 400 million from military assistance.

If the action is sustained by the House later this week, the aid program would get $3,304,500,000 of the $4,175,000,000 Eisenhower requested for the fiscal year starting July 1. In addition, it would have available an estimated 400 million in previous funds which have not been obligated in spending.

While the President actually requested $4,175,000,000 in new money, Congress limited appropriations to $4,000,000,000 in a separate bill authorizing continuance of the aid program. The actual money figure is $701,800,000 below the authorized amount.

The cuts were approved despite a special Eisenhower plea Saturday that the committee reject the proposed reductions in military assistance and defense support funds.

These "can not but jeopardize our own security and the defense of the free world," Eisenhower said in a telegram to House members.

Strike Pay Not Taxable, U. S. Court Finds

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today sidestepped an outright ruling on whether benefits paid by unions to striking workers are free from federal income taxes.

But by a 6-3 vote the court upheld the verdict of a federal court jury in Wisconsin that benefits paid a striking Kohler Co. worker were a gift not subject to federal tax.

Justice Brennan writing the court's main opinion, said "The jury in this case as finder of the facts acted within its competence in concluding that the assistance rendered here (to the striker) was a gift."

The court majority stressed however that it was expressing no opinion as to a 1957 contention of the commissioner of internal revenue that strike benefits paid on the basis of need without regard to union membership were to be regarded as part of the worker's gross income and taxable.

Justice Whitaker dissented in an opinion in which Justices Harlan and Stewart joined.

The dissenters said they were convinced that the evidence compelled the conclusion that the strike benefits were not gifts and that they were subject to federal income tax.

42 Shriners Tour Hospital at Shreveport

The Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children in Shreveport, La., the oldest such establishment in the world, was toured by a delegation of 42 representing the Hope Shrine Club on Sunday, June 12.

The caravan of cars from Hope was led by Jack King, local club president, and Mrs. King and was met at the Louisiana state line by Noble Jimmy Baker, Louisiana State Police Captain. He escorted the group throughout the day's activities.

Dr. Gordon Oates, Potentate of the Scimitar Shrine Temple in Little Rock was flown by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Klipsch to join the Hope Shriners in Shreveport.

Attending the Parkview Baptist Church in a body was the beginning of the planned program. Members of the El Karubah Temple in Shreveport served as guides for the tour of the excellent facilities at the hospital and to meet the young patients there. At nearby Cross Lake the El Karubah Lodge was the scene of a delicious steak dinner served in the afternoon. At that time officials of the Shreveport group were introduced and those from Hope were extended a hearty welcome.

Stamps Gas Well Fire Controlled

STAMPS Ark. (AP)—Workmen poured 80,000 pounds of sand in a hole left by a gas well that blew in with a terrific roar Friday night.

The hole was sealed off yesterday cutting off the flow of .5 million cubic feet of gas per minute. About $192,000 worth of equipment had been ruined.

The driller A. T. Farr Jr. of Texarkana who was seeking oil when he hit gas said he would resume operations about 300 yards away.

Farr said the gas well would be sealed and forgotten because it did not have enough potential as a producer.

The gasser roared in late Friday night wrecking a 100-foot derrick and frightening residents of this southwest Arkansas town.

At first the gasser shot 450 feet in the air and geysers of 200 feet continued through Sunday. The initial pressure was 25 million cubic feet a minute.

The actual crater was 15 feet wide and 800 feet deep Farr said but a two-acre area was sodden with mud slush and salt water. A private fish pond nearby was ruined.

Ike Departs for Visit in Philippines and in Riot-Plagued Japan

Leftists May Have Given Up Rioting Plans

By RENE-GEORGE INAGTKI

TOKYO (AP) — Some leftist groups appeared today to be backing away from massive airport demonstrations on the day President Eisenhower arrives in Tokyo. But the hard-core Communist party leadership was reported still threatening violence.

The headquarters of the Red-tipped Solid labor federation said most members felt they should not demonstrate at the airport itself next Sunday. A decision was expected Tuesday.

Even the Communist wing of the Zengakuren student federation said it would refrain from such acts of violence as it staged against White House press secretary James C. Hagerly last Friday.

Japanese security officials went ahead with plans to mobilize 25,000 police to protect Eisenhower should mob action develop when he arrives June 19.

A Tokyo police official expressed confidence the force would be able to cope with any mob action, but added: "No amount of security can guarantee there will be no incident from an individual terrorist."

Police announced unprecedented security measures.

The car that will carry Eisenhower and Empress Hirohito on the 11-mile trip from the airport to the palace will be accompanied by 13 trucks loaded with 600 policemen, 52 motorcycle police plus 6 sidecar motorcycles, radio cars and patrol cars.

Foot police will be spread all along the route, with orders to take strong action against any attempt at interference. Mobile units also will patrol along the route, and guards will be increased at the U.S. Embassy.

A dress rehearsal of the security measures was held Sunday.

Police sources said the Communist party had seized control of the campaign against the Eisenhower visit and the U.S.-Japan Mutual Security Treaty.

This was reported to have upset the leadership of the Socialist party, which was already concerned over mounting public disfavor with the anti-Eisenhower agitation.

Big Welcome Is Expected in Manila

By MARVIN L. AROWSMITH

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—President Eisenhower took off today for a three-day visit to the Philippines—still determined to go on this weekend to riot-plagued Japan.

The President, pleased by a warm reception in Alaska, left Elmendorf Air Force Base aboard his jet airliner, the scheduled 74 hours later arrival at Clark Field near Manila at about 3:45 p.m. Philippine Time—2:45 a.m. EST Tuesday.

Prospects were for a rousing welcome for Eisenhower in Manila, where he was stationed as an Army officer in 1938-39.

But there was a risk of danger, the possibility of physical harm to the 69-year-old President on his scheduled arrival in Tokyo.

In the Japanese capital, left-wing mobs, now perhaps controlled by Communists, still are intent on trying to prevent and wreck the projected Eisenhower visit.

The President arrived in sunny Anchorage, biggest city in the new 49th state, Sunday morning after a 3,700-mile nonstop flight from Washington.

He said he had rejected advice that he abandon or postpone his visit to Tokyo.

He is going ahead, he said, because the visit "represents an important phase of a program whose paramount objective was, and is, to improve the climate of international understanding."

Alluding then to the hate-propaganda campaign in Tokyo, the President added: "We should not permit unpleasant incidents and sporadic turmoil, inspired by misled or hostile agents, to dim for us the concrete and gratifying results. They have been to the great good of the entire world."

At Anchorage Eisenhower was met by his press secretary, James C. Hagerly, who last week was besieged by a screaming Tokyo mob from which he narrowly escaped.

"Hello, Jim," the President chuckled as he shook hands.

The press secretary still declined to make public the details of the scheduled June 19-22 Eisenhower stay in Tokyo. Again, he refused to say whether he was satisfied that Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi can make good his "guarantee" of Eisenhower's personal safety in the Japanese capital.

Great Dane Mauls a 9-Year-Old

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A 150-pound Great Dane dog described as "afraid of children maulled a nine-year-old girl yesterday.

The child was in good condition today with scalp and body cuts and scratches.

The girl, Reimla Smith, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. Floyd Smith, was attacked while she and her parents were visiting a Catholic home for working girls here.

The home's director, Sister Holman, said the child had been warned to stay out of the back yard where a male and female Great Dane were kept as watch dogs. But the runt said the child wandered into the yard and was attacked by the male animal after she became frightened by it and began screaming.

The sister said small boys who threw stones and sticks at the dog had made it afraid of children. She said the dog which had been immunized against rabies would be removed from the home.

Hospital attendants said 49 stitches were required to close gashes on the child's head, chest and arms and legs.

than the House in foreign aid funds will be asked to restore some of the cuts.

The committee's action was taken on recommendation of subcommittee headed by Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La.).

The military phase of the program, which finances fighting equipment, training, supplies and services for friendly nations, was limited by the committee to $1,600,000,000 of the two billion requested.

The committee offered no explanation for the cut, but noted that the amount approved is 300 million more than was appropriated for the present year and said more than two billion in unexpended balances was available.

Here's what the committee recommended for other phases of the program:

1. Defense support, economic aid to bolster defense programs: The President requested 724 million; Congress limited this to 675 million in the authorization, and the committee pared it to 600 million.

2. Technical Cooperation, a program designed to develop economic resources and productive capabilities of underdeveloped areas: The President wanted 172 million dollars, which Congress authorized; the committee cut it to 150 million.

3. United Nations program for technical help: The committee approved the entire 33 million dollars requested.

4. Special assistance program: The President requested 208 1/2 million dollars. Congress limited this to 250 million and the committee cut it to 206 million.

5. President's special emergency fund (to meet unforeseen contingencies): The President asked for 175 million dollars. Congress authorized only 150 million and the committee approved that figure.

6. Development loan fund: The President asked for 700 million dollars. The committee cut this to 650 million, the amount authorized by Congress.

security treaty and Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, were reported now undecided what course to following during Eisenhower's visit. It was considered possible that they might want to wash their hands in advance of any violence that might mark his stay.

A spokesman for the Communist wing of Zengakuren said: "He may slow down the President's car but we will not stop it. Students will line the streets around the airport and perhaps even go up to the terminal, but we won't lie down on the runway or in front of his automobile."

The outlook, or the Eisenhower visit was brightened somewhat with the decision by the Democratic Socialist party to join the government in welcoming the U.S. President to Japan.

COLLEGE-SPONSORED CONTESTANTS

Hot Springs—Although most of the contestants in the Miss Arkansas Pageant here July 12-16 are college students, five are actually sponsored by colleges. They are (top left) Miss College of the Ozarks, Donna Killmore of Van Buren; (top right) Miss University of Arkansas, Patti Pulliam of Jonesboro; (center) Miss Little Rock University, Gail Van Pelt of Little Rock; (lower left) Miss Henderson State Teachers College, Annette Reeves of Malvern; and (lower right) Miss Southern State College, Sonia Henninger of Hot Springs. A total of 45 entries for the pageant have been received so far.

WHAT TO DO WITH IT—Modernists want the Senate-War-Navy Building, which stands next to the White House in Washington, torn down because it is an ugly pile of granite. Antiquarians want it preserved as a good example of 19th century architecture. Its many-columned entrance is shown above. It houses the Budget Bureau, the National Security Council, Office of Defense Mobilization and General Services Administration. When told it was fireproof, Gen. Ulysses Grant remarked, "That is a pity."

Chapter 24

The important point was that Duke was gone from here but planned to return. Nothing to do now but wait for Duke, and he looked into the gunny-sack and found food—dry roast meat and drier bread, bacon, canned goods.

He ate some of the bread and meat. He got out his jackknife and opened a can of tomatoes and drank the juice and fished out the pulp with his knife point and ate it. He felt tremendously renewed.

Restless, he began prowling the cave. On the walls were scratches he and Duke had made in imitation of cave drawings they had seen in books. He went deep into the cave, far back toward its end, and found where a fire had burned long ago and guessed it had been one he and Duke had kindled. He looked down at the charred stubs of wood that had been patiently totemed from the gulch, and he bent closer, drawn by something there in the debris that was no part of boyhood memory.

He lifted the object and held it, a partially-consumed carpetbag. He knew it for what it was, and his pulse raced and his mouth went dry. He fumbled at the clasp. Inside he found a great wad of newspapers, scorched and half burned. He tore this wad apart and held one of the newspapers close to his eyes and made out the masthead. The Jupiter City Journal. He couldn't read the date in this light, but he didn't need to. He knew. The meaning of his discovery was suddenly as clear to him as a lightning flash on a stormy night.

He remembered Duke in Jupiter City and his pleading with Duke to hit the home trail, as he had followed Duke from one saloon and gambling hall to another. He remembered how finally Duke had handed him the carpetbag and told him to take it along home, promising he'd hit the trail himself shortly. And at that very time Duke had known what the carpetbag held, and known, too, what he must do to keep it from being delivered.

He turned then, wrenched from chaotic thinking by a warning sound. He turned, hearing shale rattle as someone came up the slope to the cave's mouth. That was Duke silhouetted there in the opening—no mistaking his build—and he faced toward Duke and drew his gun at the same time and stood waiting.

Then he saw the second silhouette, the one behind Duke's; and he drew in a sharp breath, for Dorcas was here, coming into the cave on Duke's heels.

He hadn't counted on Dorcas, yet her presence was not surprising when he remembered the note Duke had left. Duke, sneaking past Hatchet's camp afoot in the hours beyond midnight, must have drifted on down the road as he'd planned, drifted into the dawn and a meeting with Dorcas, riding up from the Brewster place. Probably they'd both been near him before he'd quit the road and taken to the back country. And now they were here.

He said in a level voice, "Stop where you are, Duke. You, too, Dorcas. Don't try for your gun, Duke!"

"Duke jerked in astonishment. 'All right Ry,' he said. 'Dorcas told me you were on your trail.'"

"Unlatch your gun-belt, Duke. That's right—slow and easy. Let it drop. Now hook your toe under it and kick it this way. Fine."

"Get on with it," Duke said sullenly. "You've hunted me and you've found me."

He had expected to find Duke's weak, handsome face five years older. What he hadn't expected was to find lines of suffering there. Duke looked like a man who had been through some long sickness, and the disarming thing was that even though anger still beat in him, he felt a stab of pity for Duke. He thought of that burned carpetbag, and he asked stonily, "Do you remember the court room, Duke?"

"Yes, and the words you said to me as they led you out. About the man with the mask being my build. You'd guessed then, hadn't you, Ry?"

"Not for certain. The thing I kept remembering was that you didn't protest. Then one by one the pieces began to fall into place. The gambling you must have done on nights when you gave me the slip. Your giving me the carpetbag, finally, but saying you wanted to stay a couple days more. What you really did was follow me and get the carpetbag and bring it here and try to burn it. But I didn't find out that last fact till just now."

"But meantime you'd guessed." "I used to lie awake in the prison nights and even worked out the words I'd say—words calculated to draw the truth out of you and then make you mad

Man Held in Slaying and Robbery

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man described as a trigger-happy desperado is held here for questioning about a waco Tex. robbery-slaying last Jan. 20.

John Junior James 30 was out-gunned by a woman clerk.

Police said James was captured Friday as he fled a telephone office where Violet De Meiere calmly ignored his revolver threats.

It turned out that the man reputed to be "one of the meanest in the Southwest" was armed only with a .45 pistol.

Officers said Miss De Meiere not only ignored James' weapons she answered the telephone in his presence and told the caller to sum up police. This caused James to make a fast retreat (he officers said).

James' younger brother Loyal is serving a 99-year sentence at the Huntsville Tex. prison for his part in the Waco slaying.

Loyal James was captured in Trumann Ark. Feb. 10 after he allegedly shot another man in a brawl.

The two brothers reportedly had been engaged in a two-man crime wave as they swept through Missouri, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Texas—preying mainly on restaurants, grocery stores and drug stores.

The man killed at Waco was a customer who was shot during a $2200 supermarket hold-up.

The James brothers, formerly lived at Walnut Ridge Ark.

enough to fight."

The sullen tone went out of Duke's voice, and in its place came the first hope, the first eagerness. "What changed your mind?"

"Everything that had been between us," Buckner said. "All the good memories weighed against the one bad one. Does that make sense?"

Softly, "I reckon, Ry."

"Then the only thing that mattered was not whether you'd double-crossed me, but why? Why would you have done such a thing to me, of all people? That's what put me on your trail, Duke. Everybody jumped to the notion that I was out howling for vengeance, while all I wanted was to ask that question. But maybe I got the answer yesterday. Maybe you put me in prison to get Dorcas."

"On my word, Ry, it wasn't that!"

Johnson to Ignore Bar Asso. Rap

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas Supreme Court Justice Jim Johnson has called racial integration "a greater crime than rape and murder" and pledged to campaign for a state constitutional amendment to close schools faced with race-mixing.

Johnson told an Arkansas Gazette reporter in an interview yesterday that he will campaign for the proposed amendment despite a request by the Arkansas Bar Assn. that the Supreme Court prevent his doing so.

The Bar Assn. last week asked the court to adopt an American Bar Assn. canon which sets out that judges should avoid making political speeches.

Johnson said the canon forbids backing candidates and no code can keep a judge from speaking out on the issues of the day. "I am opposed to rape and murder," he said, "and would speak out against them, and the greatest crime—even beyond those—is integration."

Johnson, an extreme segregationist, has been boosting Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus for president in Faubus-for-President rallies in California and Louisiana.

The proposed amendment Johnson favors was introduced by Faubus in the 1959 session of the Arkansas Legislature. It will face voters on the November general election ballot. The measure would allow public funds to be distributed among students for tuition payments.

Faubus' four opponents in the current gubernatorial race have condemned the amendment as a destroyer of public education and it has developed into one of the major issues of the campaign.

Johnson said school closing needn't be a bad thing. "It would help the entire school system if we had a little private enterprise in it anyhow," he said.

Faubus used a state law to close Little Rock public high schools against integration in 1958. But federal courts struck down the measure and the schools were opened in 1959. Eight Negroes attended Central and Hall High Schools this year. Thirteen are scheduled to attend this fall.

organdy dress. The many nice gifts were presented to her on a cart draped in white crepe paper. Summer flowers were used on the serving table and at other points around the room.

Readers Tell Experiences, Hoping Others Will Profit

Many of the letters sent this column illustrate through first hand experiences points I try to make in my daily columns. Here is one from a mother whose son learned the hard way.

Dear Dorothy Dix:
I read your column every day. You give lots of good advice if people would only take it.

I had five boys. The youngest is still home. Last year he got himself into a fine mess. He was going with a 15-year-old girl. I found out her mother was no good and the girl going with other men. I told my boy the mother would make trouble. Sure enough. She signed papers against him for statutory rape against her daughter. The girl had already been in a juvenile home twice before.

They had to give my boy a 30-day suspended sentence. Now he listens to me and is careful who he goes with. Sometimes these teen-agers have to learn the hard way. I wish you lots of luck in your work. — Mrs. O. L.

pregnant. Her husband mistreats her. He has said time and again that he is going to leave her if she doesn't obey him. He uses vulgar language in speaking to his mother-in-law. Can such a marriage be a success? — A Worried Sister

Dear Worried Sister: It will require great effort and much love to bring happiness to all concerned, including the child.

The boy, feeling he has been trapped into such a union, is letting resentment get the better of him. Instead of being a man and shouldering his responsibilities, he is acting like a baby himself.

However, if your sister loves him, there is no hope. You and your mother can help by making him feel welcome. Instead of rejected. Try expressing love instead of hate. Ignore his bad traits; praise his good ones. With your combined efforts you could make a man of him. It's worth trying for the child's sake. Send your problem to "Dorothy Dix." Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her in care of this newspaper.

than the House in foreign aid funds, will be asked to restore some of the cuts.

The committee's action was taken on recommendation of subcommittee headed by Rep. Otto E. Passman (D-La.).

The military phase of the program, which finances fighting equipment, training, supplies and services for friendly nations, was limited by the committee to $1,000,000,000 of the two billion requested.

The committee offered no explanation for the cut, but noted that the amount approved is 300 million more than was appropriated for the present year and said more than two billion in unexpended balances was available.

Here's what the committee recommended for other phases of the program:

1. Defense support, economic aid to bolster defense programs: The President requested 724 million; Congress limited this to 675 million in the authorization, and the committee pared it to 600 million.
2. Technical Cooperation, a program designed to develop economic resources and productive capacities of underdeveloped areas: The President wanted 172 million dollars, which Congress authorized. The committee cut it to 150 million.
3. United Nations program for technical help: The committee approved the entire 33 million dollars requested.
4. Special assistance program: The President requested 268½ million dollars. Congress limited this to 256 million and the committee cut it to 206 million.
5. President's special emergency fund (to meet unforeseen contingencies): The President asked for 175 million dollars. Congress authorized only 150 million and the committee approved that figure.
6. Development loan fund: The President asked for 700 million dollars. The committee cut this to 650 million, the amount authorized by Congress.

security treaty and Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi, were reported now undecided what course to following during Eisenhower's visit. It was considered possible that they might want to wash their hands in advance of any violence that might mark his stay.

A spokesman for the Communist wing of Zengakuren said: "He may slow down the President's car but we will not stop it. Students will line the streets around the airport and perhaps even go up to the terminal, but we won't lie down on the runway or in front of his automobile."

The outlook, or the Eisenhower visit was brightened somewhat with the decision by the Democratic Socialist party to join the government in welcoming the U.S. President to Japan.

Cubans Try Officer

HAVANA (AP)—A former army captain who tried to stir up a revolt against Prime Minister Fidel Castro is facing trial by a military court authorized to pass the death sentence.

COLLEGE-SPONSORED CONTESTANTS

Hot Springs—Although most of the contestants in the Miss Arkansas Pageant here July 12-16 are college students, five are actually sponsored by colleges. They are (top left) Miss College of the Ozarks, Donna Killgore of Van Buren; (top right) Miss University of Arkansas, Patti Pulliam of Jonesboro; (center) Miss Little Rock University, Gail Van Pelt of Little Rock; (lower left) Miss Henderson State Teachers College, Annette Reeves of Malvern; and (lower right) Miss Southern State College, Sonia Henninger of Hot Springs. A total of 45 entries for the pageant have been received so far.

WHAT TO DO WITH IT—Modernists want the Senate-War-Navy Building, which stands next to the White House in Washington, torn down because it is an ugly pile of granite. Antiquarians want it preserved as a good example of 19th century architecture. Its many-columned entrance is shown above. It houses the Budget Bureau, the National Security Council, Office of Defense Mobilization and General Services Administration. When told it was fireproof, Gen. Ulysses Grant remarked, "That is a pity."

The important point was that Duke was gone from here but planned to return. Nothing to do now but wait for Duke, and he looked into the gummy-sack and found food—dry roast meat and dried bread, bacon, canned goods. He ate some of the bread and meat. He got out his jackknife and opened a can of tomatoes and drank the juice and fished out the pulp with his knife point and ate it. He felt tremendously renewed.

Restless, he began prowling the cave. On the walls were scratches he and Duke had made in imitation of cave drawings they had seen in books. He went deep into the cave, far back toward its end, and found where a fire had burned long ago and guessed it had been one he and Duke had kindled. He looked down at the charred stubs of wood that had been patiently toiled from the gulch, and he bent closer, drawn by something there in the debris that was no part of boyhood memory.

He lifted the object and held it, a partially-consumed carpetbag. He knew it for what it was, and his pulse raced and his mouth went dry. He fumbled at the clasp. Inside he found a great wad of newspapers, scorched and half burned. He tore this wad apart and held one of the newspapers close to his eyes and made out the masthead. The Jupiter City Journal. He couldn't read the date in this light, but he didn't need to. He knew. The meaning of his discovery was suddenly as clear to him as a lightning flash on a stormy night.

He remembered Duke in Jupiter City and his pleading with Duke to hit the home trail, as he had followed Duke from one saloon and gambling hall to another. He remembered how finally Duke had handed him the carpetbag and told him to take it along home, promising he'd hit the trail himself shortly. And at that very time Duke had known what the carpetbag held, and known, too, what he must do to keep it from being delivered.

He turned then, wrenched from chaotic thinking by a warning sound. He turned, hearing shale rattle as someone came up the slope to the cave's mouth. That was Duke silhouetted there in the opening—no mistaking his build—and he faced toward Duke and drew his gun at the same time and stood waiting.

Then he saw the second silhouette, the one behind Duke's; and he drew in a sharp breath, for Dorcas was here, coming into the cave on Duke's heels.

He hadn't counted on Dorcas, yet her presence was not surprising when he remembered the note Duke had left. Duke, sneaking past Hatchel's camp about in the hours beyond midnight, must have drifted on down the road as he'd planned, drifted into the dawn and a meeting with Dorcas, riding up from the Brewster place. Probably they'd both been near him before he'd quit the road and taken to the back country. And now they were here.

He said in a level voice, "Stop where you are, Duke. You, too, Dorcas. Don't try for your gun, Duke!"

Duke jerked in astonishment. "All right Ry," he said. "Dorcas told me you were on my trail."

"Unlatch your gun-belt, Duke. That's right—slow and easy. Let it drop. Now hook your toe under it and kick it this way. Fine."

"Get on with it," Duke said sullenly. "You've hunted me and you've found me."

He had expected to find Duke's weak, handsome face five years older. What he hadn't expected was to find lines of suffering there. Duke looked like a man who had been through some long sickness, and the disarming thing was that even though anger still beat in him, he felt a stab of pity for Duke. He thought of that burned carpetbag, and he asked stonily, "Do you remember the court room, Duke?"

"Yes, and the words you said to me as they led you out. About the man with the mask being my build. You'd guessed then, hadn't you, Ry?"

"Not for certain. The thing I kept remembering was that you didn't protest. Then one by one the pieces began to fall into place. The gambling you must have done on nights when you gave me the slip. Your giving me the carpetbag, finally, but saying you wanted to stay a couple days more. What you really did was follow me and get the carpetbag and bring it here and try to burn it. But I didn't find out that last fact till just now."

"But meantime you'd guessed."

"I used to lie awake in the prison nights and even worked out the words I'd say—words calculated to draw the truth out of you and then make you mad enough to fight."

The sullen tone went out of Duke's voice, and in its place came the first hope, the first eagerness. "What changed your mind?"

"Everything that had been between us," Buckner said. "All the good memories weighed against the one bad one. Does that make sense?"

Softly: "I reckon, Ry."

"Then the only thing that mattered was not whether you'd double-crossed me, but why? Why would you have done such a thing to me, of all people? That's what put me on your trail, Duke. Everybody jumped to the notion that I was out howling for vengeance, while all I wanted was to ask that question. But maybe I got the answer yesterday. Maybe you put me in prison to get Dorcas."

"On my word, Ry, it wasn't that!"

Man Held in Slaying and Robbery

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A man described as a trigger-happy desperado is held here for questioning about a waco Tex. robbery-slaying last Jan. 29.

John Junior James 30 was out-gamed by a woman clerk.

Police said James was captured Friday as he fled a telephone office where Violet De Melere calmly ignored his revolver threats.

It turned out that the man reputed to be "one of the meanest in the Southwest" was armed only with a toy pistol.

Officers said Miss De Melere not only ignored James' weapons she answered the telephone in his presence and told the caller to sum him up. "This" caused James to make a fast retreat the officers said.

James' younger brother Loyal is serving a 99-year sentence at the Huntsville Tex. prison for his part in the waco slaying.

Loyal James was captured in Truman Ark. Feb. 10 after he allegedly shot another man in a brawl.

The two brothers reportedly had been engaged in a two-man crime wave as they swept through Missouri, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Texas—preying mainly on restaurants grocery stores and drug stores.

The man killed at Waco was a customer who was shot during a $2200 supermarket hold-up.

The James brothers, formerly lived at Walnut Ridge Ark.

Johnson to Ignore Bar Asso. Rap

LITTLE ROCK (AP) —Arkansas Supreme Court Justice Jim Johnson has called racial integration "a greater crime than rape and murder" and pledged to campaign for a state constitutional amendment to close schools faced with race-mixing.

Johnson told an Arkansas Gazette reporter in an interview yesterday that he will campaign for the proposed amendment despite a request by the Arkansas Bar Assn. that the Supreme Court prevent his doing so.

The Bar Assn. last week asked the court to adopt an American Bar Assn. canon which sets out that judges should avoid making political speeches.

Johnson said the canon forbids backing candidates and no code can keep a judge from speaking out on the issues of the day. "I am opposed to rape and murder," he said, "and would speak out against them, and the greatest crime—even beyond those—is integration."

Johnson, an extreme segregationist, has been boosting Arkansas Gov. Orval E. Faubus for president in Faubus-for-President rallies in California and Louisiana.

The proposed amendment Johnson favors was introduced by Faubus in the 1959 session of the Arkansas Legislature. It will face voters on the November general election ballot. The measure would allow public funds to be distributed among students for tuition payments.

Faubus' four opponents in the current gubernatorial race have condemned the amendment as a destroyer of public education and it has developed into one of the major issues of the campaign.

Johnson said school closing needn't be a bad thing. "It would help the entire school system if we had a little private enterprise in it anyhow," he said.

Faubus used a state law to close Little Rock public high schools against integration in 1958. But federal courts struck down the measure and the schools were opened in 1959. Eight Negroes attended Central and Hall High Schools this year. Thirteen are scheduled to attend this fall.

Readers Tell Experiences, Hoping Others Will Profit

Many of the letters sent this column illustrate through first hand experiences points I try to make in my daily columns. Here is one from a mother whose son learned the hard way.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I read your column every day. You give lots of good advice if people would only take it.

I had five boys. The youngest is still home. Last year he got himself into a fine mess. He was going with a 15-year-old girl. I found out her mother was no good and the girl going with other men.

I told my boy the mother would make trouble. Sure enough. She signed papers against him for statutory rape against her daughter. The girl had already been in a juvenile home twice before.

They had to give my boy a 30-day suspended sentence. Now he listens to me and is careful who he goes with. Sometimes these teen-agers have to learn the hard way. I wish you lots of luck in your work. — Mrs. O. L.

Here's a girl who may have to learn "The Hard Way": Dear Dorothy Dix: I am in love with a divorced man of 21. When my parents found out he had been married, they made us quit seeing each other. He asked me if I would marry him when I was 18.

I didn't think he would wait for an ugly thing like me. If I marry him it would mean not being welcomed back by my family; disapproving my mother and getting rid of a guy I'm going with.

If I tell this boy, he'll tell Mother that I'm slipping out to see a divorced man. If I do marry the divorced man, do you think there would be a chance for us? — Liza

Dear Liza: You are living in deceit. If you really loved this divorced man, deeply and sincerely, you would proclaim it to the world, no matter the consequences. The fact that you are going with another "guy" makes me doubt you have any love for this other man. Without love no marriage can be happy.

This letter from "Worried Sister" illustrates the tragedy of a "shotgun wedding": Dear Dorothy Dix: My sister was married recently at the age of 16 due to becoming

"Norman," a scene-stealing pigeon, adds to the hilarity of MGM's merry murder-mystery, "The Cuckoo," film version of the Broadway stage hit. The new comedy co-stars Glenn Ford and Debbie Reynolds for the second time, following their successful teaming in "It Started With a Kiss." TV's popular "Cuckoo" stars a leading role.

Deborah Kerr uses Tom Helmore as a pawn in teaching her playboy husband, Rossano Brazzi (right) that two can play at the "jealous game" in MGM's "Curt Your Blessings." Marguerite Chavaler co-stars in the sophisticated romantic comedy.

Argentina Revolt Fails in Six Hours

By SAM SUMMERLIN

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Arturo Frondizi government announced today that a vest-pocket revolt in western Argentina had collapsed a scant six hours or so after it started.

Frondizi told newsmen the bulk of Argentina's armed forces had rallied to his side within a few hours after the small-scale rebellion last night in San Luis.

The President confidently announced he would leave a planned this afternoon on a month-long tour of Europe.

Before dawn a spokesman for the Interior Ministry said loyal troops had captured Gen. Mauricio Gomez, commander of the 2nd Argentina Army, who reportedly joined the rebels.

The other rebels fled from the strategic sites they captured a few hours earlier in San Luis, including the local radio station, the spokesman said.

Gen. Rodolfo Larcher, the secretary of war, had warned the rebels to surrender by dawn or to face an assault by loyal troops from the surrounding area. He said the rebel force numbered only 300 to 400 men of an anti-aircraft group.

Gen. Larcher said the military rebels would be tried in military courts, and the civilians brought to trial under the "Conintes" plan adopted last March. This gives military courts the right to try civilians and impose the death penalty for such actions as sabotage and bombings.

Annulment Given Ingrid, Rossellini

ROME (AP)—An Italian court has granted Ingrid Bergman and Roberto Rossellini an annulment of their Mexican proxy marriage.

The court's opinion, filed by Judge Orlando Falco, was made public today by one of the attorneys involved in the case.

The ruling paves the way for the Italian film director to marry Sonali Das Gupta, the wife of an Indian movie man who left her husband for Rossellini boy, the Italian a daughter and now is in Italy with him.

Miss Bergman did not contest Rossellini's suit for the annulment. Now 42, she is married to Swedish impresario Lars Schmidt, and they live outside Paris.

Still before the Rome courts is a case to settle final custody of Miss Bergman's three children, Rossellini, 53. The actress has temporary custody of them.

Indians Take Over First in the American

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland took over first place in the American League Sunday by simply sitting in the clubhouse waiting for it to stop raining.

Baltimore dropped out of the top spot after losing two to Kansas City, 6-1 and 5-3 in 10 innings. This put the Indians half a game up although the opener of their scheduled double-header at New York was called in the first inning when the rains started.

Detroit edged into fourth place by splitting two at Washington, winning 12-6 after losing the first game 8-3. Jim Lemon hit three homers for the Senators.

Boston trounced Chicago 4-1, shoving the White Sox into fifth place, and then learned, two hours later, that Mike Higgins was returning for another tour as Red Sox manager.

San Francisco's 16-7 victory over Milwaukee spared Pittsburgh's National League lead to half a game. The Pirates walked St. Louis 15-3, then lost the second game 5-2. Stan Williams pitched Los Angeles to a 3-1 triumph over Cincinnati and Chicago downed Philadelphia 8-7.

Bud Daley lamed the Orioles in the opener, allowing five hits and striking out 11 men. Harry Chitt's two-run double and three hits by Russ Snyder paced the A's attack on Chuck Estrada and Gordon Jones.

Snyder's 385-foot triple off Hoyt Wilhelm touched off the winning spiral in the 10th inning of the second game. Whitey Herzog's single and Norm Siebern's double drove in the two runs, enough for relief pitcher Johnny Kucks' first victory.

Pete Rummels collected two hits for Boston, including a two-run single, and boosted his average to .385. Frank Sullivan went all the way, scattering seven hits to beat Chicago's Bob Shaw.

In the first game at Washington, Lemon drove in four runs with his 14th homer and a single as the Senators whipped the Tigers behind Camilo Pascual and Don Lea. Despite his 15th and 16th homers in the second, the Tigers rapped Washington pitching for 12 hits. Rocky Colavito hit a pair of homers in the second game. The two clubs combined for 11 homers during the double-header.
